

Dear Passenger:

The information provided during your booking inquiry has prompted Dragonair to request a MEDA (Passenger Medical Clearance) form to be completed by you and your treating doctor.

Some passengers will need special medical consideration when they travel. This may involve clearance for fitness to fly after a recent illness, medical procedure or surgery, a request for use of a passenger's own medical equipment during the flight, or a need for in-flight oxygen or wheelchair assistance. Wheelchair use will be free of charge but in-flight oxygen will carry a charge which is non-refundable even for unused cylinders.

The purpose of the MEDA form is to enable Dragonair in conjunction with your doctor to ensure that you are able to travel safely. Part 1 of the MEDA form is to be filled in by you, the passenger, while Part 2 is to be completed by your treating doctor in English.

Please ensure that the MEDA form is returned to your local Dragonair reservation office at least two full working days prior to your departure date, otherwise there is a risk that you may not be able to travel on your preferred flight if there is a delay in the assessment of this form. (Note: For flights departing from the United States, we are temporarily unable to support medical oxygen requests at this time but passengers may bring one of five FAA approved Portable Oxygen Concentrators. For details, please contact your local Dragonair Reservations office). Once Dragonair receives the form and it is assessed by our Aviation Medicine team, a member of Dragonair staff may contact you to discuss your medical clearance.

Please note that you will have to bear any associated charges made by your doctor for completing this form.

By providing the information requested in the MEDA form, you are waiving the confidentiality of the information disclosed by your treating doctor. In order to ensure your requests are conveyed to the relevant connecting airlines, Dragonair will also disclose the contents of the MEDA form to all carriers associated with this ticket.

Dragonair wishes to ensure that all its passengers fly safely, therefore it is in your best interest to disclose all relevant medical information before you travel.

If you have any questions relating to the MEDA form, please direct it to your local Dragonair reservation office. Thank you for your cooperation.
